

'Writer of The Year Award'

First Place – £250

Four runners-up awards of £50 each

Achieving success as a writer isn't always easy. That's why we celebrate the achievements of our students with an annual Award.

The 'Writer of the Year Award' is open to all students of The Writers Bureau and will be given to the student who, we feel, has developed the most as a writer. Your success won't be judged merely on the financial gains you have made – we want to hear about any publishing success you have had. This might include breakthroughs into new markets, the most unusual payment received for your writing, success with a genre you thought you wouldn't want to try or anything else you feel is relevant.

To qualify for entry you need to be a student of The Writers Bureau and to have been published in the past year. The winner will receive a £250 cash prize and there are four runners-up awards of £50 each. The winners will be published on our website and in our promotional material.

The Award will be judged in January of each year. So, if you would like to put yourself forward to be considered as Writer of the Year 2010 then your application must be received by 31st December 2009.

We hope you will take part in this Award and we now look forward to reading about your writing achievements.

Send your application form (see overleaf), together with a recent colour photograph of yourself, to:

Here are some questions to help get you started, but please use these as a guide only. You can use a separate piece of paper if you wish. Then return this form, together with a colour photograph of yourself, to The Writers Bureau by 31st December 2009.

What were your writing ambitions when you started your course?

How has The Writers Bureau course helped you with your writing?

Now that you've had some publishing success what are your future writing goals?

Please give details of where you have been published?

How much have you earned from published writing this year? (We may ask to see proof of your publishing success if you are selected as a winner.)

Have you any further comments you'd like to make about The Writers Bureau Course?

I declare that the above is a true and accurate record of my achievements.

I give permission for my name, writing achievements and photograph to be used for promotional purposes by The Writers Bureau.
